

Fluid Time, work in progress

Time seen metaphorically as a fleeting element in an infinite movement, is the core of the series Fluid Time.

As a leading motive, corroded iron acts as a metaphor of time, seen as a constant fluid stream. In the series Fluid Time, the element of water, also indirectly, plays a prominent role in different forms.